
You've been looking - now please touch

Posted by stella - 2009/03/23 16:51

Hello everyone,

It's great to see you are beginning to look at the forum. Internet magic provides Tina and I with statistics to see how many people have been looking at the messages, and now we want you to touch!

The forum needs to become a habit - for all of us - and habits need some initial work. So, either you've just had a great idea about something or you're a bit stuck and want to borrow someone else's brain - it's an excuse to make a posting.

I was about to send this message as an email before thinking that we all get too many emails anyway - and this may get more readers.

So post something on the forum today even if it's just to say 'hello I've had a go'.

Thanks
STella
